

For when you need more from your Home Insurance

1. Going beyond the basics

We've been working with healthcare professionals long enough to know you sometimes need that little extra from your home insurance.

Sometimes members need additional protection for example if you have more than £150,000 contents. In these cases we will search a select panel of high net worth insurers on your behalf. Benefits such as valuations, warranty free cover and superior levels of protection are amongst some of the extras you get when we look further afield.

2. The fine art of broking

The role of a broker can be hugely beneficial when it comes to meeting the more bespoke needs of customers with higher value homes.

By applying our expertise, we establish your individual needs and then find a solution that addresses these. Offering you the comfort that you are well protected in time of need.

Don't forget your home is an extremely valuable asset, and represents a significant financial, and often, emotional investment.

By going beyond the basics we help our customers protect what matters to them.

3. Supporting you all the way

Arranging the right cover is just the start of how an insurance broker helps you.

Making a claim is always the time when you appreciate your insurance the most. Having the support of a helpful, knowledgeable claims team can make an enormous difference at a stressful time.

Our in-house claims support does exactly that, supporting you in your time of need.

Their experience with underwriters, risk assessors and the overall claims process will save you time and undue strain.

4. In proud partnership with the BMA

The BMA have put their trust in us to provide their members with quality insurance policies and high standards of customer service.

This provides you with extra reassurance that we will deliver on our promises.

Furthermore, we only work with doctors who are BMA members, so we have more time to dedicate to you.

5. Chartered Insurance Broker

Sometimes it's easy for organisations to promise you the world, but how do you know they'll deliver?

Our Chartered Status is a stamp of approval from the Chartered Insurance Institute. It's our way of demonstrating our commitment to professionalism and excellence for our customers, our staff and our profession.
